THE excessive heat of the past few days, during which the thermometer has registered as high as 92 in the shade, has been productive of much sickness, and two or three deaths have occurred from heat apoplexy.

A YOUNG man named McColl, lately third engineer on the S. S. Parthia, was taken suddenly ill while walking in Bonham Strand yesterday evening and fell on the pavement. He was immediately conveyed to the Government Civil Hospital, where he died shortly afterwards.

WE learn from an Australian telegram that the Secretary of War, replying to a question in the Commons, said that the big guns required for the defence of the various coaling stations would be forwarded during the current year to their respective localities, and the 6in. guns for minor stations were nearly finished.

THE Overland China Mail, which will be issued early on Saturday morning, will contain a full report of the great share case. The Acting Chief Justice's summing up speech, which was indistinctly heard by the reporters, has been kindly revised by His Lordship. A few extra copies of the Mail have been printed, application for which should be made early.

THE new N. D. L. steamer Dresden arrived to-day with the German Mail of 11th June. She differs to some extent from the other boats in the line in being more of a freight boat. She has, however, accommodation for thirty first class passengers and the cabins are fitted out in the same splendid style as in the other boats. She is commanded by Captain W. von Schuckmann, formerly in command of the General Werder.

MR T. M. Leatherbarrow, First Boarding Officer in the Harbour Department, died last night from heat apoplexy. Mr Leatherbarrow was well-known and much liked among the shipping community, and his death has been the cause of much regret. The funeral, which took place this afternoon, was attended by a large representation of the brethren of St. John's Lodge, of which lodge deceased was one of the oldest members.

AN inquiry was held by Mr Wodehouse, at the Magistracy to-day, into the death of Arthur S. Dakers, engine-room artificer in the Naval Yard, who was drowned while bathing on Tuesday afternoon. Deceased, who was 25 years of age, had been bathing near the Naval Yard with three companions, when he suddenly sank and was not seen again alive. His body was afterwards recovered near the place where he had disappeared. Mr Wodehouse found that death was accidental.

THE Northern Territory Times has a large conception of this colony. Here is what it says of the late storm:—'During the recent tempestuous weather in Hongkong over 29 inches of rain fell within 30 hours. Immense damage was done to the crops by the frightful hurricane, and the flooding of the rivers and canals. Crops! rivers! canals! No, Mr Australia, we have got none of these, but we can furnish you with a choice assortment of 'rings,' 'bears,' 'bulls' &c.

MIGHT we remind the Hon. Surveyor General that the drains at the Club corner—just under the dining-room windows of that important institution—would be vastly improved by a dose of disinfectant? The stench is not pleasant, and to the European overseers of the work it must be anything but wholesome. No one doubts the necessity for the work now going on, but the repairs need not be interrupted, rather would they be facilitated, by a temporary suppression of the killing stench now emitted by the openings referred to.

MR GEORGE Bayne, overseer in the Public Works Department, was seized with a fit of apoplexy on Tuesday afternoon and died within an hour. He had been going about his ordinary duties in the morning, and was taken ill shortly after tiffin. Deceased was an old and faithful servant of the Government, his period of service in the Public Works Department extending to fifteen years. His funeral, which took place yesterday afternoon, was largely attended by his fellow employés and other friends, including a considerable number of Masonic brethren.

GEORGE Dart, a seaman on board the s.s. Port Augusta, was brought before the Harbour Master (Commander Ramsay) to-day on a charge of disobeying a lawful command of the master, Captain H. E. Draper. The defendant's excuse was that he was sick and unfit for the performance of duty. Mr Miles, the chief officer of the ship (who explained that the Captain was unable through illness to attend), stated that the defendant had gone ashore without leave and on his return refused to do his work. The ship's surgeon stated that defendant on the occasion in question was not unfit for duty. Commander Ramsay dismissed the case on the defendant's undertaking to go on duty.

THE shares of the British North Borneo Company have come into considerable request during the last few weeks in London, and both descriptions of shares have materially improved in their quotations.

HSIEH Fu-ch'êng, the newly-appointed Minister to England, had audience of the Emperor on the 18th ultimo, and after receiving instructions was granted two months leave of absence before proceeding to Europe.

REBUILDING THE CHINKIANG CONSULATE.—The work in connection with the rebuilding of the British Consulate, lately burned down by the Chinkiang rioters, has commenced, the preliminary survey having been made by Mr H. C. Collins, of H. M.'s Office of Works. The new consulate will be very similar to its predecessor.—Shanghai Mercury.

SIR J. P. Hennessy, addressing his Legislature on the fortifications in Mauritius, said:—'Your generous contribution of £55,500 for the Imperial Defence Works of Port Louis is also being carefully expended and some of the new batteries are completed and fully armed.' It is said Sir John will leave Mauritius almost immediately, and will arrive in London towards the end of June. It is understood that he will retire on a pension, and seek parliamentary honors.

THE Singapore Free Press, referring to the placing of a marine sorter upon the vessels of the M. M. Mail steamers from Saigon to Hongkong, says:—We learn on making enquiries that it is doubtful whether the arrangement can be made before September 1st. The French agents naturally await instructions before handing over the mails to the English officials. Whenever possible the Hongkong marine sorter will embark at Saigon, but as the steamers thither are somewhat irregular it may be found necessary to send him on to Singapore.

THE Newchwang correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury writes on the 26th June as follows:—Rain, more precious than gold, has fallen at last, and already the plain at the back of the settlement has been converted from an arid wilderness into a swamp with mud a foot deep along the cart tracks. All the missionaries have now a more cheerful tale to tell, and hold out hopes that the barley and wheat crops may be saved in part. The success of the kaoliang and bean crops is assured, unless there be floods again this year, from which Heaven protect us.

IT has not taken very long to bring the War Office to its bearings in connection with the removal of the Singapore V. A. drill-gun. We learn that Major-General Sir Charles Warren has just received instructions from the military authorities at home to reconvey the gun-mountings used by the S. V. A. from Blakan Mati East to their former site behind the Master Attendant's Office. They were originally brought over at the beginning of August 1888, the gun dismounted, and the carriage and platform removed in April 1889, and now at the beginning of July orders have come out for their return. The S. V. A. recruit drills will probably begin again shortly after the restoration of the emplacement to its old condition.—Singapore Free Press.

AN accident which might have been attended with serious results occurred in Shanghai last Thursday night, soon after 11 o'clock. Some people were out in a boat letting off fireworks when a rocket exploded and set fire to the other fireworks, which were left entirely uncovered, in the boat, an ordinary sampan. In the boat were six people, a grown up person and five boys, and they were some distance out in the stream. Some of the boys who could swim, jumped overboard, and swam ashore, or to other boats, while the grown-up person supported one of the boys who could not swim, and they clung to their boat, which was on fire, till they were rescued. Four of the youngsters escaped unhurt, but the two who clung to the burning boat were injured by the exploding fireworks. Having been taken ashore, their burns were attended to and found not to be serious.—N. C. Daily News.

THE N. C. Daily News writes on the 4th inst:—It is stated that some sales of new tea ex Moyune give losses of 2d. and 3d. a pound, and that buyers are shewing great indifference. We hear of the following actual sales:—

Cost in Hankow Tls. 37,	sold at	1/8
,, ,, ,, 27,	,,	1/2½
,, ,, ,, 26,	,,	1/2½

,, ,, ,, 20,	,,	9 & 10½

Next day our contemporary writes:—More sales of teas ex Moyune have been received, and very irregular they are, ranging from most to a loss of 4½d. per lb. The worst feature of the London market however, is that, according to a telegram received yesterday from a large firm of importers, deliveries of China tea have fallen off fifty per cent.

A CHAPTER OF MISFORTUNES.—The Japan Gazette of 26th ult. says:—Rarely, if ever, have we heard of such a succession of misfortunes as have recently befallen Mrs Myles, a lady at present in Yokohama. The first of these occurred some ten or twelve days ago. She was staying

THE following news comes in a private letter from Cho Chia Keo, dated 13th June last:—A terrible fire is raging now on the north side of the river. Seven main and many smaller streets are burnt out. Several thousands are homeless.

ACCORDING to the Shên Pao, the grateful rains which have at last fallen at Peking were the result of the bringing thither of a famous iron tablet, which was brought to the Ta K'o Tien on the 17th ultimo. Here certain High Ministers of State were appointed to offer incense and prayers to it night and day, and on the 19th the long hoped-for rain began. 'Such is the prompt response of this tablet to the prayers of the faithful.'

A PARIS correspondent writes:—A lecture was given on May 30 by General Tcheng-Ki-Tong, of the Chinese Legation, on the contemporary literary movement in China. The scholarly Celestial representative, who spoke in excellent French, gave a review of the history of letters in his country from the time of Confucius. His polished versions of Chinese poems were much admired for their delicate and expressive shades of sentiment—no easy feat in a tongue so comparatively poor as the French. We had a string of authors detailed, but the names could not be produced by Western tongues. The learned Orientalist, Professor Oppert, of the College de France, was one of the auditors. A divertissement was afforded by a performance on the guitar of a Chinese hymn—Shin Shi—to the ancestors, composed in the dynasty of the Tcheou, 1122 B.C.

THE steamers Smith and Cass of the Formosan Trading Company, which were placed under the management of Messrs. Melchers & Co., of Shanghai, have now been transferred to the control of H.E Liu Ming chuan, who has appointed one of his officers as Chief Manager. A new regulation has been promulgated, interdicting the further issuance of free tickets for indigent official passengers. This was formerly allowed, with the view of aiding expectant and other officials who were unable to pay for their passage to and from the mainland. It was discovered, however, that certain officials applied for these tickets and then sold them, a highly detestable practice. For this reason this privilege has been withdrawn, and all will be required to pay their fare on an equal footing.—Translated from the Shih Poo for the Chinese Times.

IN its Peking Notes, the Chinese Times says:—International business does not suffer from the absence of so many of the Ministers, because at the present moment there is a general deadlock in diplomatic matters. The Tsung-li Yamên will simply do nothing. The stern and the suave are alike held at bay, and the Chinese Ministers smile a stereotyped non possumus to everything that is proposed, no matter how plain and simple. Missionary grievances from the provinces, both Catholic and Protestant, are accumulating pretty rapidly, while no progress is made in disposing of them. One Minister is reported to have made an almost abject proposal for an irreducibly small measure of fulfilment of his treaty, which was equally rejected by the Yamen as if he had made excessive demands. He offered to accept in each province any locality selected by the Government, no matter what its drawbacks, and there to confine the missionaries of his nationality; but in vain.

A LARGELY attended meeting of the shareholders in the Taku Tug and Lighter Company was held at Tientsin on the 26th ult., Mr J. Stewart in the chair, at which it was decided to transfer the undertaking to a proposed Taku and Lighter Company, Limited, for the sum of Tls. 400,000, the shareholders accepting payment of their present shares—of which there are 2,000—by scrip of Tls. 300,000 in the new Company. The meeting then resolved itself into a meeting of the new Company, when the proposed terms were accepted. Some discussion then took place as to making a compromise with the opposition company, but as to this there was not that unanimity which had prevailed up to that time, the chairman and Mr Collins stating that 'in spite of diminished rates, the gross and net results of working showed a better result than that of any other four months since the formation of the Company, and the directors had the utmost confidence in the continuation and increase of its prosperity.' After the usual votes of thanks the meeting adjourned.

SUPREME COURT.

IN APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

(Before Mr Justice Fielding Clarke, Acting Chief Justice, and Mr Justice Wise, Acting Puisne Judge.)

Thursday, July 11.

MOTION AND ANOTHER v. PITMAN: MOTION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL.

Mr Francis, Q.C., instructed by Mr Webber, said he had to move ex parte on behalf of the defendant for leave to appeal. The application was made under the provisions of section 41 of the Summary Jurisdiction Ordinance. The notice of motion stated the grounds on which the application was made, that the judgment in Summary Jurisdiction was against the weight of evidence, in so far as it held that the defendant promised to pay the plaintiffs; that the judgment was also wrong in law, inasmuch as it held that a verbal acknowledgment or undertaking or promise to pay was sufficient to take the case outside the scope of clause 10 of the Summary Jurisdiction Ordinance. Mr Francis did not propose to ask for leave to appeal on the first point, but on the second, the point of law. The provision in the Summary Jurisdiction Ordinance on which the application was based, section 10, stated as follows:—'All suits for sums not exceeding five hundred dollars shall be commenced within three years next after the cause of such suits shall accrue, unless there has been some contract, acknowledgment, undertaking or promise to pay in respect thereof by the party to be charged, within three years before the commencement of such suit.' The action was brought in the Summary Court and was in respect of a number of separate bills of costs for separate bits of business, the greater portion of which, or all of which except one, were done at a period exceeding three years from the commencement of the suit. It was not disputed for a moment that the work was done, and he did not know that any question was raised as to the amount charged.

The Acting Chief Justice remarked that the cause of action must date from the delivery of the signed bills and not from the time the work was done, according to the Solicitors Act. Surely that was an act of general application which had been adopted in this colony?

Mr Francis said it had certainly not been extended to the colony by any local ordinance, and he felt equally confident that no ordinance on the same lines had been framed. He thought as far as solicitors' bills were concerned they were driven as far back as the commencement of Her Majesty's reign. That point itself was not raised before. He was not able to inform their Lordships exactly when the signed bills were received, but the work was certainly done at periods which in some cases were considerably beyond the three years.

The Acting Chief Justice said that at present he thought they must assume for the purpose of argument, at any rate for the moment, that the bills for all these items except the latest were delivered and the cause of action raised before the three years' period.

Mr Francis, then, referring to the 10th section of the Summary Jurisdiction Ordinance, said the question was raised whether the acknowledgment, promise or undertaking must not necessarily be in writing. Admitting, for the purpose of this argument only, that there was a verbal acknowledgment within the three years, the question was—could that be held as sufficient? His Lordship in deciding the case, finding that there had been a former decision in the Court of Summary Jurisdiction to the effect that such an acknowledgment need not be in writing, decided in accordance with that previous decision, and the defendant asked for leave to appeal from that decision. He submitted that no acknowledgment unless in writing was sufficient to take any case outside the statute of limitations. That obviously must be the meaning intended to be attached to the terms in the statute by the legislature, interpreting it by existing law.

The Acting Chief Justice said the law of England made a six years' limit, and then came in the amending act which said that these acknowledgments must be in writing. Then the legislature of this Colony had reduced the time to three years; and, taking into consideration the reduction in time, might it not have occurred to them that as the time was reduced security in writing was no longer necessary. If one might guess at their reasons for reducing the period, seeing that there was a danger of unsatisfactory proof of verbal acknowledgments in such a long period as six years, of course that danger became so much less from the reduction of the time.

Mr Francis submitted that there could have been no object in making the alteration except to provide against perjury, defective memory and so on, and they probably thought that considering the circumstances of this Colony, and the fact that the Chinese were largely availing themselves of the courts of law, it was advisable to limit the period in order to avoid the difficulties and uncertainties of the longer term. The evils that were to be remedied here were precisely those which led to the passing of a law in England requiring such acknowledgments to be in writing.

The Acting Chief Justice said it seemed to him that the reduction of the period must have been regarded as sufficient to do away with the necessity for writing. Of course the Court had to look very strictly at the nature of a statute, and there was nothing in this statute itself to lead the Court to suppose that the legislature did not mean what they said in it. If there was any reference in the statute to any previous one Mr Francis' argument would have great force.

Mr Francis submitted that precisely the same difficulty and confusion as the statute was intended to remove would arise if viva voce acknowledgments were to be admitted at all.

The Acting Chief Justice thought Mr Francis must admit that the danger would be very much lessened by the period being shortened. The question was no doubt one of general importance. He must confess he was against Mr Francis' contention himself, and so was his learned brother, but if Mr Francis thought it right to proceed further leave would be given to appeal on the point of law alone.

Swatow.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO BARON VON SECKENDORFF.

Swatow Where is Swatow? Give me an Atlas, please! That is what commonly follows a mention of the place at Home.—'A place having something to do with beancake'—it has been described in Hongkong! To the Shanghai man, it has some affinity with Aden—a rocky and a dreary place where steamers go, and there are no Races! While the average Foochow and Amoy man looks upon it as a sort of poor relation. An eminent British Consul is reported to have said, that 'there is nothing attractive about Swatow; it is bare and hot—even the cemetery is hot—yet no one stays there long who does not like it.' The fact is that those who stay find that Swatow is not commercially unimportant. That as a place of residence its natural advantages are considerable and that withal its foreign residents form a happy and united community. This last circumstance has been largely due to the presence of excellent officials, so important a matter at a small port, and conspicuous among these in recent years has been the Baron von Seckendorff, Vice Consul for Germany, acting also as Consular Agent for the United States, who after six years' tenure of office has just left, promoted to fill the important post of His Imperial German Majesty's Consul at Tientsin. He succeeded in conciliating all classes and nationalities in the community, while steadily and energetically caring for German interests in particular, and maintaining always the dignity of his office. Certainly he did much to promote harmony and add to the enjoyment of social life in Swatow, and the community, in order to mark their appreciation of this, resolved to give a farewell reception in his honour, which took place at the Swatow Club on Thursday night, the 20th of June.

The Club was suitably decorated for the occasion, and the attendance, which comprised officials, missionaries, merchants and others of all nationalities, in fact almost the entire community, was a testimony to the esteem in which the Baron von Seckendorff is held.—The Chinese Officials were also represented by Mr Liao-too San, the Deputy for foreign affairs.

The early part of the proceedings consisted of a conversazione—various talented musicians from time to time contributing songs and pianoforte solos and duets. Light refreshments were served and iced coffee was in great request. Between eleven and twelve the Company sat down to an excellent supper, at which Mr Frater, officiating British Consul and Chairman of the Reception Committee, presided. In proposing the health of the guest of the evening Mr Frater spoke of the Baron von Seckendorff having assumed office as first official Consul for Germany at a time when questions of great difficulty were pending with the Chinese Authorities, but which he had succeeded in bringing to an amicable issue. He referred to the distinguished family of which the Baron is a member, spoke in high terms of his merits as our official and colleague, acknowledging his useful co-operation in matters connected with Emigration, described effectively the charm of his social qualities, his unfailing courtesy, and bonhommie to all comers and expressed the regret the community felt at his departure and their good wishes for his future. The toast was drunk with the greatest enthusiasm.

The Baron von Seckendorff in reply spoke of the gratitude and pleasure he felt from this expression of the community's good will. He was glad that he had been accounted true to the traditions of his family, which was 'Duty to Emperor and Fatherland.' Mr Frater, in speaking of his family, no doubt referred to a figure in Carlyle's great History of the Great Frederick. Doubtless he and all his forefathers, but especially his honored parents, would have been proud could they have witnessed the honour now done to their kin-man. In his official life in Swatow he had to acknowledge the ready assistance and valuable support of his British colleagues, to whose energy, action and readiness it was largely due, that in matters of common interest things went so smoothly. Of Mr Frater in particular he spoke in terms of high regard and esteem as an able official and a good friend. He also referred to the friendly relations he had enjoyed with the members of the Imperial Maritime Customs Staff and the consideration shewn by them to him, which in former years he had also enjoyed at the hands of their great Chief. For honour conferred upon him by the King of Holland in recognition of services he had been able to render to his nationals in connection with Emigration, he was grateful; also for a flattering notice of his co-operation in such matters from the Government of the Straits Settlements. For the Swatow community, which he described as one of the happiest and most harmonious he had ever seen, he entertained the warmest feeling. His happiest times had been when he had seen his friends happy at the German Consulate, and now that he had to go, he had many pleasant memories of daily social gatherings to take away with him; of Tennis parties at Double Island, delightful up-country trips, dances, festivities and other diversions. He thanked the community, especially the ladies, for their kindness to him. He must look back upon his stay in Swatow with pleasure for the rest of his life, and nothing happier could befall him than to meet his friends again. He concluded by drinking to the health, welfare and prosperity of the Swatow community, and was again accorded quite an ovation with musical honours.

Mr Sidford afterwards proposed the health of the Baron's successor—Mr Streich—in a felicitous speech; and Mr Lauts toasted the Ladies in a manner worthy of the subject. Both toasts were duly honoured and responded to, and the company then rose. Some took their departure, but many remained for dancing, which was kept up with much spirit till about 3 a.m., when this most enjoyable meeting broke up, but not without a final 'Prosit' to 'the Baron!'

Although a representative committee of the leading residents of all nationalities promoted the affair, the arrangements were for the most part in the hands of the Hon. Secretary of the Swatow Club, Mr Allum, and were carried out with his usual zeal and success.

The Swatow community will watch with interest the career of the Baron von Seckendorff, confident that his tact, character and ability will ultimately bring him to move in the highest circles of the Imperial service.

The Baron left for the North per Namoa on the 24th ulto., most of the residents being on board to bid him farewell.

NOT THERE, MY CHILD!

(OVERHEARD IN THE SHANGHAI PUBLIC GARDENS.)

Filius loquitur:

Father, I am aweary,—I am tired
Of the unending dulness of Shanghai;
Fain would I leave behind me Yangtze's tide
To seek a change beneath some brighter sky.
See! yonder swiftly skimming towards the south
White winged sea-birds vanishing from sight;
Now they are gone.—Oh happy, happy birds,
Tell me, say whither do they wend their flight?
Surely they seek a land where there is more
Of joy in life;—oh, tell me of that shore.

Pater respondit:

My son, those birds were gulls, and many such
Fly to an island in the southern sea,
Far-famed Hongkong, whose lofty Peak uplifts
Its height above a British colony.
Where hill and vale in tropic verdure clad
Combine to make a landscape full of grace.
But be content, my son, here in Shanghai
Flat tho' it be, we have the better place.
There are some things that nature cannot give
Which men prize most in this enlightened age,
And here we have no legislative freaks
No 'government by parties in a rage.'
We are not vexed with rulers and their cranks,
Beyond the Consul's yearly modest fee;
And reading of Municipal reports
Shanghai enjoys ideal liberty.
We know, moreover, as the adage says,
More things than gold reflect the sunlight's gleam;
But in that verdant isle all geese are swans,
And substance spun from many an airy dream.
Life is all stir and rush,—the air doth teem
With schemes and plans and bubbles without end.
'T were well to pray a Reclamation scheme
Might be enforced, to help reclaim and mend
The wicked ways and artful little plans
Not only of the brokers but the 'broke';
And clear the tangled speculative web
Of some few spiders ere the last fly choke.
—My son, I've seen the sweetest blossoms grow
Upon the mighty sleeping crater's side,
And some of Hongkong's fairest flowers to-day
Think, as at 5 p.m. they Peak-wards ride,
That, thanks to Punjoms, Jelebds and such
Bright treasures of the Golden Chersonese,
Whose ample dividends can never fail,
Life's prospect is a dream of gilded ease.
Alas! bright dream: rise shades of Selangor!
And ye with even more metallic names!
Shade of Pope Hennessy! great Bowen's ghost!
Come and unfold your knowledge of these games!
—My son, seek not a too attractive spot
The falcon soars unseen in brightest sky.
Better, by far, live safely on the plain,
Than scale the Peak and find yourself sky-high!

FEARS OF TROUBLE IN HANKOW.

Yesterday afternoon, says the N.-C. Daily News of 6th inst., the Senior Naval Officer received a telegram from Hankow requesting the presence of a gunboat at that port, as the students had been in collision with the Police and had assumed a threatening attitude. In consequence of this, Captain Nesham immediately gave orders for the Merlin to get up steam and proceed to Hankow. Some of her men were on shore, so they were recalled by a gun, and her Blue Peter was run up to the fore. Extra men were sent on board of her from the Satellite at half-past six o'clock, and the Merlin unmoored before 7.30. In the meantime, a telegram was despatched to the Consul at Hankow informing him that a gunboat would be sent at midnight, and before 10 p.m. the Merlin left here. The telegraph line between Hankow and Kiukiang had been inoperative till noon yesterday, so that the Consul's telegram was one of the first for Shanghai that had come over the repaired line. In case of emergency, there are several vessels, including a Russian tea ship, at Hankow for the residents to go on board.

KOREA.

An occasional correspondent writes from Chemulpo, under date of 24th ulto., to the Nagasaki Express:—

H. B. M. S. Egeria arrived on the 15th inst., and was expected to leave on the following Tuesday. Her departure was, however, postponed until Friday, and I now hear that she will come into the inner harbour, and remain some time.

A servant belonging to the French Legation in Seoul was beaten by order of a Korean official, for looking over his wall, which adjoins the Legation. M. de Plancy appealed to the authorities for satisfaction, but was refused. He has now taken a firm stand, and will demand an apology from the Koreans. It is to be hoped that the Government will give in, as in the event of their not doing so M. de Plancy will most likely find means to enforce his demands.

Nothing has been done about the late murder and robbery (the Tick Hing case), and nothing more is ever likely to be known about it by the public.

We have been having plenty of rain of late, and the prospects of grain crops are fairly good.

I send you herewith a copy of a circular issued from the newly-established printing office. It is a Japanese circular, with English translation. One paragraph reads as follows:—

'We have the pleasure to inform to the public that we have established a printing office, and hope that orders will be given successively, except those printings such as large size and great volume in the present time.'

M. Solabel, a French architect, who has been employed in the palace lately, was stoned by a crowd of palace servants, in the palace ground, and had to flee for his life. The feeling against the French is very bitter, and trouble is feared.

It is rumoured that a Chinese fleet of eight ships is due here on 26th.

THE P. AND O. COMPANY.

The following is taken from the report which was to be presented on the 12th June at the Co.'s half-yearly meeting:—

The qualities of the Peninsular and Oriental vessels have been found to respond to the high expectations formed of them. Two of the new cargo steamers, the Bombay and Hong Kong, are now at work, the former having been despatched to Singapore, while the latter is at present loading for the China ports. The Deccan, which was built in 1868, has been sold. The directors are happy to state that the mail services have been performed with undeviating punctuality, and that the company's fleet has entire immunity from accidents during the past half-year.

An improvement in the export trade to the far East was noted in the report of December, 1887, and it was then stated that for the first time for three years the company's steamers were loading full of outward cargoes. Homeward freights, on the contrary, continued generally depressed until July last, at which date a favourable reaction set in, and from that time until recently it may be stated in general terms that both homeward and outward business has been in a more satisfactory state than for some time previous. At the present moment the outlook is not so satisfactory, as in certain trades, such as that to Australia, shipments have declined and rates have also fallen considerably, while both the Bombay and Calcutta homeward markets have recently been in a state of partial collapse. But inasmuch as the general trade of the country appears to be in a satisfactory condition, it is reasonable to hope that these unfavourable tendencies may be of a temporary character. At the same time, the steady increase in the amount of tonnage, and the enhancement in the price of coal, are features in the condition of the shipping trade which must be taken into account in looking to the future. So far as the present is concerned, it is satisfactory to state that the accounts of the last six months show a decided improvement over those of the corresponding period of last year.

RAILWAYS IN CHINA.

In early Spring, orders were sent from Peking to the following High Provincial Officials to report on railways:—Fung-t'ien Military Governor, K'ing-yü; Heh-lung Kiang Military Governor, Ting An; Viceroy of two Kiang, Tsêng Kuo-chüan; Viceroy of Fukien and Chêkiang, P'ien Paoti; Viceroy of Hupeh and Hunan, Yü Luh; Viceroy of Kuangtang and Kuangsi, Chang Chih-tung; Governor of Chêkiang, Pung Tsün; Governor of Anhui, Chên Yi; Governor of Formosa, Liu Ming-chuan; Governor of Hupeh, K'wei Pin; Governor of Hunan, Wang Wên-shao; Governor of Kiangsu, Huang P'ing-nien.

Reports from two of these, the Viceroy of Canton and the Governor of Formosa, have now appeared.

The following is a résumé of the Memorandum of the Viceroy of Canton on Railways:—

(1) Railways, which have contributed so much to the enrichment, prosperity, and power of European countries within the last hundred years are at present urgently needed in China to revive her languishing export trade. Recent statistics show a preponderance of imports over exports of Tls. 20,000,000 a year, and steps should be immediately taken to check the flow of money out of the country caused by this preponderance, by fostering the export of China's natural productions.

(2) Railways are also becoming more and more a necessity for purposes of defence, as powerful and envious neighbours close in nearer and nearer around the Central Nation from year to year.

(3) With regard to the question of building one particular railway from Tientsin to Tungchow, the Censor Yü Lien-yüan in his opposition to it seems to be moved by the fear of the spread of foreign religions, of the exposure of the capital to invasion and of the employment of foreign men and materials to the detriment of native interests. But we have not found that the introduction of steamers and telegraphs has been followed by the spread of ideas subversive of morality. The Censor's two other objections are much more serious. The Viceroy believes indeed that the same prudence which made England veto the Channel Tunnel, should make China veto the Tientsin-Tungchow Railway, unless she were prepared to spend over Tls. 1,000,000 in special defensive preparations. In the Memorandum of Kwei Jan, the Censor, and his co-adjutors, the number of men employed in cart and boat traffic between Tientsin and Tungchow is about 60,000, and allowing to each a family of five, that makes a total of 300,000 persons depending on this trade for their daily rice. The Viceroy Chang thinks this estimate probably not excessive, and believes that at least half of them would be thrown out of employment by the introduction of the Railway. To come to the number of men to whom employment would be given by the introduction of the Railway, we find that England with her 40,000 li of rails, employs 165,000 railway men. At this rate, the Tientsin-Tungchow line, with its 200 li, would only employ about 800 men.

(4) A proposal has been made for a railway along the old bed of the Yellow River, passing through Tsih-chow (德州) and Tsining Chow (濟甯州) in Shantung. But the drifting sand of this country would be a bad foundation, and repairs would be continually needed, causing a ruinous expense. The best place to build the first great railway would be starting from Lu-k'ow K'iao (蘆溝橋) outside Peking, to Honan, and on to Hankow in Hupeh, about 2,000 li. This would be too far removed from the coast to cause apprehension of its being seized and utilised by an enemy; and this line would not necessitate the removal of many houses or graves to allow it to pass. It would cost about 5 000 or 6,000 taels a li, or about Tls. 12,000,000, and the construction could extend through eight years. Iron quite good enough for the purpose could be obtained from the P'ing-ting (平定) mines in Shansi, and although this would cost more and be inferior to foreign iron, yet the employment of it would give the advantage of China's money being spent in China instead of abroad.

The above are only a few of the salient points of this interesting memorandum, which will doubtless appear in extenso in the Peking Gazette. They are extracted from the Hu Pao of 30th June.—N.-C. Daily News.

NEWS BY THE GERMAN MAIL.

THE AUSTRIAN FOREIGN MINISTER ON THE SITUATION.

Vienna, June 25th.—At the sitting of the Austrian Delegations to-day, Count Kalnoky made a statement declaring that at the present moment, although the situation is unsettled, the peace of Europe is not in danger. He feared that the aggressive and aggrandizing aims of Servia are premature, but he said that Austria-Hungary is bound to prevent Servia from becoming the hot-bed of intrigue. In conclusion, the Foreign Minister assured the Delegations that Austria-Hungary is on friendly terms with all the States and Powers, including Russia.

FRANCE AND THE BRITISH OCCUPATION OF EGYPT.

London, June 26th.—It is expected that the Egyptian Conversion scheme will collapse, and that the guarantees required by France for British evacuation are not likely to be given.

London, June 26th.—France has demanded from England the nullification of the Convention negotiated by the diplomacy of Sir H. Drummond Wolff in 1877, whereby the British occupation of Egypt was to terminate in 1892, but the right of entry in case of disturbance was to be guaranteed to Great Britain and Turkey; and which Convention the Porte after much provarication refused to ratify. France has also demanded that a date shall be fixed for the British evacuation of Egypt. The Times, in commenting upon the French demands regarding the British occupation of Egypt, considers that they are merely election manœuvres of the French Government.

London, June 26th.—The Marquis of Salisbury has refused to treat the question of the evacuation of Egypt and the Conversion scheme together. The Conversion of Egyptain Preference has been dropped.

London, June 27.—The Standard, Daily News, and Daily Telegraph regard the failure of the Egyptian conversion scheme as not of vital importance to Egyptian finance. The only effect, the journals declare, will be to render France unpopular in Egypt, and England must choose her own time to make declarations.

After a meal His Highness was taken seriously ill, and succumbed shortly afterwards.
